

it is a challenge where you are given a png file first I googled how to sacn it then I checked if the file is not any other format so I scanned it with file it was png I checked and found a new tool named exiftool i scanned and i found a short poem in the poem if you add the first character of every word it said check lsb so i googled i found out lsb was like to check metadata so I used a tool named zsteg then it gave me a cryptic text by looking at it there was == at the end so I thought it is base64 so I opened cyberchef baked it and got the flag